

Jane Bornemeier

Senior Editor, The New York Times

The New York Times

Jane Bornemeier has 30 years of experience as an editor at the nation's top newspapers, including The New York Times, the Los Angeles Times and the Philadelphia Inquirer. Since 2001, she has turned her journalistic talents to television, video and audio production. She has been executive producer of award-winning documentaries on such cable channels as HBO, Discovery Times and Showtime. She created The New York Times video unit, which debuted by producing a nightly newscast for TV and the Web. She developed and manages The Times's successful Podcasting operation and produces audio for The New York Times on the Web and WQXR-FM in New York. You can hear her Podcasts at NYTimes.com and on iTunes.